ANOTHER MARRIED MAN IMPLICATED BY GIRL; TELLS STORY

Fourteen Year Old Girl, Who Has Been Defending Will Adams, Turns On Him While on Witness Stand and Implicates Another.

Edith Daniels, fourteen year old daughter of Ludlow Daniels, of Dover, told a harrowing story of illicit relations with married men on the witness stand this morning in Squire Fred W. Bauer's court when Will Adams, Dover man, was given a preliminary hearing. The warrant under which Adams was arrested charged him with contributing to the delinquency of a female under 16 years of age but after hearing the girl's story, the charge was changed to carnally knowing a female under 16 years of age.

The girl has stoutly contended that Adams was innocent of relations with her other than that of an acquaintance until the trial today. Last night she said the man was innocent of the charge which was made Tuesday against him by her father and at one time, it looked as though it would be necessary to dismiss the case but when she was placed on the witness stand today she told a different story and the evidence against Adams is very strong.

In the course of the evidence the girl implicated another, George W. Berry, an employee of the Dover Button Factory. Berry is a man 50 years of age and is married and has a family. Immediately upon her implicating this man, a warrant was procured for him and Deputy Sheriff Devore went to Dover and returned Berry this afternoon. Mr. Berry retained Attorney A. D. Cole to defend him in his examining trial.

Besides the girl herself, her father, aunt and uncle and little brother were put on the stand and all testified that Adams had been meeting the little girl in Dover at various times. After hearing all of the evidence, Squire Bauer held Adams to the Grand Jury, which is now in session, and increased his bond to $2,000 which he was unable to give and he was returned to the county jail to await the orders of the Grand Jury.

The examination of Mr. Berry will probably be held late this afternoon or tomorrow morning before Squire Bauer.

The arrest of the second man in the case has created much interest here and in Dover, where the parties reside

PROF. YOUNG RESIGNS AS SCHOOL MUSIC TEACHER

Prof. J. H. Young Gives Up Appointment as Music Instructor in the Public Schools—Mrs. Wallace Rees May Accept the Position.

At a call meeting of the City Board of Education held at the High School building Wednesday evening, Prof. J. H. Young, director of the Maysville Boys' Band, who several months ago was elected as City School Music Director, tendered his resignation and it was accepted. Prof. Young found that he would be unable to give the time to the school work that was necessary in connection with his work with the Boys' Band.

The case has been adjusted out of court and Mr. Muse makes full retraction of his statements.

Mr. Muse's full retraction which the Public Ledger is authorized to publish, follows:

A Retraction

I did say to Frank Henderson and J. H. Mulligan the language set out in the petition of B. S. Grannis, filed against me in the Fleming Circuit Court, as follows: "From what I hear we haven't any Commonwealth's Attorney. They tell me that in that Owens case at Maysville, he was sent to the penitentiary and they wanted to get him out and didn't know how to manage it. Some one suggested that they would take Grannis $1200 and the man who was to take the $1200 says, 'What if Grannis induces me for attempting bribe?' Very well, then, you tell him we will indict him for accepting a bribe in the gambling at the Whitehall Hotel." He taken $1200 to Grannis, gives it to him, Mr. Grannis sees Governor Stanley, give him $600 and in five days the man was par-doned."

In making that statement I bad no malice against B. S. Grannis and no intention to do him harm, but merely repeated what bad been told me by one Marshall Hunsicker who gave as his authority C. G. Lytle and Mr. Stewart of Flemingsburg, Ky.

Upon investigation I find that statement, both as to the Owens case and the Whitehall Hotel case, to be wholly untrue and without foundation. It was an unguarded statement that should not have been made without investigation against a man of Mr. Grannis' well known good character and high standing.

Upon investigation I find that as to the Owens case after full conference with all parties interested in the prosecution, that Mr. Grannis agreed, as a customary in cases of a plea guilty, to recommend a term of four years in the penitentiary. The first jury failed to carry out that recommendation and gave him only three. Upon which Mr. Grannis immediately put him on trial under another indictment and secured an additional year. The case both before the Grand Jury and in the Circuit Court was handled with the utmost fidelity and efficiency, and I find that with the pardon of Wood Owens, Mr. Grannis had absolutely nothing to do.

As to the gambling at Whitehall Hotel, I learn from reliable authority that that matter has been several times thoroughly investigated before the various Grand Juries in Mason county without proof authorizing an indictment, but at the January term of Mason Circuit Court an indictment was returned against various parties, including the brother of the proprietor and one Luke McLuke of Cincinnati, for gambling in the private room of McLuke in that hotel, and each of the parties there involved was fined $100.00, the highest amount possible for that gambling, with the single exception of Luke McLuke, who has since been arrested in Covington and will be tried, as have the others.

I regret the annoyance, and am making this retraction, paying the cost of its publication throughout the District and State, with court costs and attorneys' fees, in order as far as possible to right the wrong I have unintentionally done.

RETRACTION MADE BY J. S. MUSE IN REGARD TO STATEMENTS

Prominent Fleming County Merchant, Being Sued For Slander, Retracts Charges Against Common-wealths Attorney.

It will be remembered that only a few months ago a suit for $50,000 damages was brought in the Fleming Circuit Court by Commonwealth's Attorney B. S. Grannis against Mr. J. S. Muse, prominent Fleming county merchant, in which it was alleged that Mr. Muse had made slanderous statements against Mr. Grannis.

TOBACCO FAIR PLANS TO BE LAID AT MEETING

Enthusiastic Meeting of Mason County Corn and Tobacco Fair Boosters is Expected at Chamber of Commerce This Evening.

A very enthusiastic meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, the board of managers of the Corn and Tobacco Fair and all persons interested in the success of this year's fair is expected at the Chamber of Commerce building this evening when plans for the next big fair to be held during the latter part of October will be held.

This is the first of a series of meetings to be held from now until the date of the fair to make preparations and it is thought that at tonight's meeting something final will be done about the dates for the big show and the place of holding the same so that advertising matter can be published immediately and spread all over the district.

Acting Secretary George Kirk, this morning stated that from information he had been able thus far to get from those interested, it looked very much as if this year's Corn and Tobacco Fair would eclipse anything of the kind that had ever been undertaken here or elsewhere. The agricultural feature of the fair will be a big one and the vaudeville stunts will be the best that money can get.

The ordinary cabbage head has come into its own and is to be reckoned with in considering the high cost of living. A local grocer today sold one large head of cabbage for weight which brought $1.10.

MAIL CARRIER RESIGNS

Mr. C. Orla Hunsicker, who for many years has carried the mail from the local C. & O. station to the local post office, has sent his resignation to the department to take effect in the immediate future. Mr. Hunsicker's salary is too small under the present contract with the government to pay him for his work. New bids will have to be asked by the government.

16-OUNCE LOAF OF BREAD PRICE FIXED AT NINE CENTS

Kentucky High Cost of Living Commission Says Bread Should Sell at 9 Cents—Being Sold Here at 10 Cents—Price May Drop.

Louisville, Ky., September 3.—The Kentucky High Cost of Living Commission fixed the fair price of bread, "16 ounce loaf," at nine cents for Louisville and other Kentucky cities. Many retailers, the commission says, has been charging 10, 11 and 12 cents for bread weighing 13 and 14 ounces to the loaf. In New York City, the commission points out, the overhead expenses is greater and the problem of distribution enters, but bread weighing 16 ounces sells for 9 cents there. The commission announces that it now proposes to turn its attention to profiteering restaurants and cafes.

This ruling of the commission named some time ago by Governor Black to make careful investigation into the High Cost of Living in the state of Kentucky applies to Maysville and this ruling may be the means of a price reduction in the retail price of bread in this city.

At the present time 16 ounce loaves of bread sold in local retail grocery stores are being sold at ten cents.

Bread manufactured in the local bakery and bread shipped here from Cincinnati bakeries being sold at the same price. Retailers are required to pay 8½ cents a loaf for this bread and at the price fixed by the state commission they point out that they would not receive enough profit for them to be able to handle bread and they say that if they are required to live up to the price fixed by the commission, it will be necessary for the bakers to reduce their wholesale price of the bread.

The State Commission has no power to enforce their rulings except by means of public sentiment, however, they make very careful investigations and upon the investigation in the matter of bread, they report that a reasonable profit can be made by the bakers at wholesaling the bread so that it can be retailed to the consumer at 9 cents a loaf.

COMMUNITY CLUBS

If there had been nothing more done by Mason County's County Agent during the past year than the organization of Community Clubs in some four or five communities of the county, he would have earned his salary several times.

These Community Clubs have already accomplished much toward making Mason County an ideal county. We have had many movements in Mason County heralded as being the one thing that would put Mason County on the map but we believe that the one thing that will put this county on the map as one of the most progressive counties in the state of Kentucky will be the organization of these community clubs by our own Mason county people under the leadership of our County Agent, who has already become very much of a Masonian.

Since the organization of these clubs throughout the county the spirit of progress seems to have taken hold of the people. In one community where such a club was organized in the Spring, we learned Saturday, every residence except two has had repairs made on it this summer. In every community where the clubs have been organized there has been created a community spirit which has caused the people to become interested in doing something for their community. The soldier boys have been welcomed back home, funds have been raised to improve the community school or plans have been laid for a lyceum course for the coming winter.

A good arousing of community spirit is what will put Mason county on the map and the Community Clubs are doing the work.

Every Mason county community which does not have such a club, should have one before snow flies.

RISING HOPES

Gabriel Poulin, of Paris, has invented an airplane propelled, like a bicycle, by pedalling. He has flown a short distance, supplying his own motive power, and science considers seriously the possibility of aerial-bikes!

It won't do these days to sneer at any invention, and we may, in imagination, get the utmost from Mr. Poulin's device.

Hundreds of airplanes have recently been purchased by wealthy sportsmen in the United States for private use, but the average man has not dared let his hopes go that high. Up-keep is both expensive and difficult—

But if bicycles with wings are ever put on the market! Imagine lifting yourself above the old earth, leaving grocery bills, traffic cops, landlords, dust, noise and all worldly woes below, and skimming about, like a swallow, in the upper blue! No roaring motor to jar your ecstasy; no scent of burning gasoline to taint the clean, thin air.

Refresh yourself by diving into a sunset; explore the rainbow; get acquainted with the stars!

The Speed, no doubt, will be more leisurely than airplanes develop. Maybe there will be tandems, or even side-cars—

Go to it Gabriel Poulin!

KEEPING CATTLE FROM "T. B."

One of the most important fights carried on by the up-to-date farmer is against tubercular infection in his cattle.

The government is lending its aid in this work, but in spite of all efforts the unscrupulous dealer manages about every so often to slip through a few infected animals, sometimes declaring that they have been tested and guaranteeing them to be in healthy condition.

As a precaution against the introduction of this kind of cattle into the healthy herd, the thing to do is to have the tubercular test made when the newly purchased cattle arrive, keeping them isolated until it is satisfactorily determined that they are sound.

One farmer says: "It is impossible to put a value upon peace of mind," so he would not try to express what it is worth to know that a herd is free from tubercular trouble. Another equally successful cattleman says that the only assurance of safety lies in frequent tests.

The Bureau of Animal Industry stands ready to make the tests wherever it is desired, and farmers who have tried the safe method would never revert to the old uncertainty as to the condition of their herds.

MONEY NEEDED FOR BOOKS IN THE ILLITERACY DRIVE

Great Need of Those Who Will Learn to Read and Write in Moonlight Schools Is Books—Funds Must Be Furnished.

Many illiterates can be induced to undertake the task of learning to read and write if they are not put to initial expense. If asked to buy books before they have begun to learn, they regard the moonlight school as a scheme to sell them something for the benefit of the seller and the need of money for shoes and bread is so immediate with very many of them that they do not listen to propositions to sell them books, tablets and pencils.

For this reason it has always been the policy of the Commission to make the moonlight school attractive to the most indigent by providing them with beginners' school supplies.

A campaign is on to raise $20,000 in Kentucky to be used in providing books, blank books and pencils. Mason county is asked to raise $500.

Evidences of the appreciation of these books abound.

The teachers report almost universal good order in these moonlight schools, but one night a teacher observed two grown women, one twenty-five, the other thirty-five, in a determined struggle. Sharply demanding to know what the difficulty was about, the teacher learned that there was but one book between the two women and that each was struggling for the possession of it.

In one county in Eastern Kentucky when the County Illiteracy Agent was distributing books, grown men and women crowded around with uplifting hands calling, "Don't leave me out! Don't leave me out!" But the supply was too soon exhausted. A man who was "left out" came to the County Agent anxiously inquiring when he could get a book. He was told that a new supply would be received at the county seat on a given day. He walked twenty miles in order to be on time to secure a copy.

It is surprising to know how many men and women there are in Kentucky who never in their lives owned a book and how many homes in which there is not a book to be found. One woman 30 years of age wrote that she had read her primer through three times. Having no other book she devoured this one. Even a pencil is a novelty to many of them—a gift which they highly prize.

To put the tools into the hands of illiterates that they may dig out of the dungeon of illiteracy is a privilege for any up-standing Kentuckian.

VETERAN WILL WALK TO CONFEDERATE REUNION

Confederate Veteran at Age of 74 to Walk 500 Miles to Reunion At Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., September 3.—Who says the Confederate veteran isn't as spry as any youth of twenty?

Take, for instance, Colonel Jack Hale, who, at the age of 74, says he will walk from his home in Ada, Oklahoma, to the Confederate reunion in Atlanta, a distance of nearly 500 miles.

Colonel Hale is one of the delegates from Joe Shelby camp of veterans at Chickasha, Okla., to the national reunion. The Tulsa Daily World says of his proposed performance:

"Colonel Hale declares he will leave Ada on the evening of August 28, the closing day of the state reunion. He plans to go via Little Rock, Memphis, Chattanooga and thence on to Atlanta, and en route will visit several scenes where battles were fought between the blue and the gray. The veteran expects to be on the road four weeks.

"Despite the fact that Colonel Hale is 74 years of age, he is active. He resides on a farm near Chickasha and takes an active part in its management. "I am sure I can make the trip without exhausting myself physically," declared Colonel Hale. "If invited, I will accept rides from automobile drivers, but I'm not going to ride one mile on the railroads," he added.

Berne, September 3.—The Russian Bolsheviks have proposed peace negotiations following the rout of their forces which are surrounded, according to an official announcement received here.

THE GALLANT SCARECROW AND THE GOLDEN GIRL'S GARDEN

Being the Story of What Happened At the Magic Moment of Noon, or No Time, When the Sun is Just at the Midway Point of His Journey, and the "Really Realness" of Things Comes Out, Just as It Does at "The Witching Hour."

(Written for the United States School Garden Army, Department of the Interior.)

PART IV.

The Scarecrow's voice droned on in my ears and the drone of golden bees in the golden squash blossoms blended with his voice in a golden blur of drowsy sound.

"It was fun, too, to see her put the magic eyes in their hills, and very interesting, too, to notice that the eyes of the Lima beans and squashes were turned downward. I've thought a lot about that. Eyes that can see in the dark, looking down into the secret heart of the earth, they are!"

"Then one day the Golden Girl brought out a tiny garden in a box. Tomato-plant battalions they were, in a wide, shallow wooden box. She set them out very carefully with a ball of dirt sticking around the roots of each plant. In the moist ground she had opened a hole with her trowel, a hole larger than the ball of loose earth around her roots. She very tenderly set the roots in the hole and firms the soil carefully around the plant. She peured in a little water into each hole and raked a little loose, dry earth around to keep in the moisture. They did well, those tomato plants! Look at 'em now!

"I beg your pardon, ma'am, for talking so much about what you already know," said the Scarecrow, seeming to come to himself, "but I'm crazy about all this; I've said it over to myself till I know it by heart. Besides, it's not often I get a chance to talk to a person. And I assure you, though I've said a lot, you haven't lost even an instant."

"After their work was done, in the afternoons when the Soldier Boy got leave from the camp, they used to sit on the bench under the Apple Tree, and they talked in the prettiest way or sat silent in the stillness of the rosy-purple-silver-misty twilight. Then they left me to the darkness. And, do you know, when I heard them talk or sing together, a great thrill went thru me and I felt alone and sometimes very lonely for some one that I could talk to."

"It was soon after most of the first plantings were completed that I began to have adventures of my own. One night a strange, beautiful silver light shone through the branches of the Apple Tree. Looking up, I saw on the bench beneath the Apple Tree a beautiful creature al in silver bunting white like the scarf which the Golden Girl used to throw around her head and shoulders, only more fine, more floaty, more—more wonderful and real, you know. And two dark gleaming, starry eyes looked at me

UNCLE SAM WILL CONTINUE HIS GROCERY

Big Stock of Food Stuffs Will Be Purchased by Government For Sale to Public.

Washington, September 4.—Uncle Sam, retail grocer, will not close out his business when the last of the army's surplus food supplies have been sold, according to indications here.

It has been announced that the War Department will continue in the market for food supplies, while it later will sell at cost to the consumer thru the retail stores which the government plans to have operating in all large cities by the first of October.

The food supplies will be sold at cost, prices identical with those at which army supplies have been sold thru the parcel post.

The movement is regarded by officials here as the most important step yet taken by the government to lower prices of necessities.

The direct reason for adoption of the new plan is the success of the parcel post food sale.

Although this sale is only beginning, the War Department has recognized that it has proved false pessimistic predictions that "the public won't buy army food."

FIGHT ON SUFFRAGE IS NOW DISAPPEARING
Miss Laura Clay Says She Will Not Oppose Anthony Amendment But Wants State Rights Admitted.

Louisville, Ky., September 3.—Delegates to the Democratic state platform convention poured into Louisville today and tonight until hotels overflowed. It is estimated that a full attendance will be present at the convention tomorrow.

All day and far into the night party nominees and party leaders busied themselves with sketching a platform. With the exception of Henry M. Bosworth, of Lexington, Democratic nominee for auditor, the entire ticket was present at the conference, which extended with little intervention from morning until late at night. Mr. Bosworth arrived about 7 o'clock tonight.

Each nominee for office has his pet plank and each bent untiring effort to-day to the drafting of his plank or in arguments for the particular plank which he advocates.

The preliminary conference was held, for the most part in the room of Thomas S. Rea, of Russellville, Democratic state campaign chairman. In addition to members of the party's ticket, Senator J. C. W. Beckham and other notable Democratic leaders of Kentucky were present. The senior senator from Kentucky did not arrive here until this afternoon. He motored to Louisville from Bardstown, where he had been with his family for the last few days. He was accompanied by Frank E. Daugherty, Democratic candidate for attorney general.

Precisely how many planks will be wedged into the platform, astute party leaders are unable to say. One thing is intimated, however. It is that the Democratic state platform will be specific in each plank, rather than general.

The committee on resolutions, to be named Thursday, will not be subjected to a fight over woman's suffrage. Miss Laura Clay, of Lexington, said today she would not oppose endorsement of the Susan B. Anthony federal amendment, provided no challenge is made by its advocates. She will insist, she asserts, on the endorsement of resolutions advocating state suffrage, and endorsement of state suffrage separate from the Anthony amendment.

Mr. and Mrs. John Welch of East Second street have had as their guests for the past week, Misses Irene and Anna Welch and Alice Garity of Connersville, Ind.

ED. MORROW WILL OPEN HIS CAMPAIGN ON NEXT MONDAY

Conference With Committee and Advisors Preparatory to Launching of Offensive Campaign at Pikeville.

Louisville, September 4.—Edwin P. Morrow, Republican nominee for Governor, will open his campaign at Pikeville at 1 o'clock next Monday afternoon. He will speak at the court house.

Mr. Morrow arrived in Louisville Tuesday for a conference with members of his campaign committee and other political friends. He returned to Somerset last night.

Following his formal opening address in Pikeville, Mr. Morrow will enter upon one of the intensive speaking campaigns for which he became famous in his previous race for governor in 1915. His itinerary has not been arranged, but he expects to be active up to the day of election.

The opening of the Republican campaign has been delayed on account of the Democratic state platform convention which will meet here Thursday. The Republicans expect to base their campaign entirely upon State issues, and the character of the platform adopted by the opposition Thursday naturally will have great bearing upon Mr. Morrow's initial speech.

The Republicans have been waiting with keen interest to learn what their opponents would have to say in their platform upon two points; the administration of Governor Stanley in general and the contract with special attorneys to represent the State in the Blingham inheritance tax case in particular.

Recent developments, however, have left little doubt as to the position which will be taken by the Democratic convention on their proposition. Indications at the recent mass convention showed clearly enough that the Stanley administration is to receive an unqualified endorsement. In fact, it is currently reported that Senator Stanley made it unmistakably plain that he would prevent the holding of a platform convention, unless promised an endorsement of his acts as governor.

Likewise the attitude of the convention on the inheritance tax contract was forecast by the recent act of Governor Black in ousting Eli H. Brown, Jr., from participation in the rich fees under that contract, and the correspondence with reference thereto. This development left no room for doubt that the platform either will be silent as to the contract, or will command Governor Black for ousting Brown.

The Republicans, naturally, have been planning to attack the administration of Governor Stanley for gross extravagance, multiplication of useless jobs, and the conversion of previous pledges into scraps of paper. They declare that Governor Black, since his elevation to the governorship, has taken new steps which gives promise of better things, and their interest in the convention has been to see whether the Democrats would repudiate the Stanley regime either by silence, inference or by damning it with faint praise.

The endorsement of Governor Stanley will place the onus of his administration squarely upon Governor Black, and the camouflage of "keeping Stanley in the background" can be exposed easily by less capable orators than Edwin P. Morrow.

Contrasts such as that in the Blingham case are denounced in the Republican platform. The Republicans can see no reason why the State should pay hundreds of thousands of dollars to private attorneys for work which the attorney general and his numerous assistants are supposed to do.

The fees in the case mentioned, it is estimated, will be in the neighborhood of $300,000, with Eli H. Brown's one-fourth left out.

Republican candidates, therefore, expect to have considerably the better of the argument when Governor Black goes before the people and tells how he saved them $100,000 by ousting Eli Brown.

Ed Morrow's views on these and other State issues will be awaited with keen interest by the people of Kentucky. His friends here remembering his keen analysis of State issues on former occasions and his skill in stripping the mask of camouflage from artificially disguised political iniquities are confident that the echo of his opening gun will be heard from the mountains to the Mississippi.

STATES WILL JOIN IN HIGH PRICE WAR

Every State in the Nation Will Organize to Fight Old Ill Cost—Kentucky Now At Work.

Washington, September 4.—Every state will be organized down to each county in the fight on high prices, if the plan agreed upon at the recent conference of governors here is carried out.

A report, embodying the governors' conclusions, following their conference with President Wilson and A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney general, is being prepared by Miles C. Riley, secretary of the conference, and will be sent to every governor in the union.

"There is no doubt that every governor will follow the recommendations that will be made in my report," said Riley.

"The committee agreed with President Wilson that the way to solve the serious situation that confronts the country is not to increase wages, but to bring down prices to a point where they will meet the present wage level.

"The most important step the committee will consider is the organization of fair price commissions in each state, to be appointed by the governor.

COLUMBUS HAS GREAT WELCOME FOR WILSON

Columbus, Ohio, September 4.—The eyes of the world, watching America's attitude toward the League of Nations and the peace treaty, are centered on Columbus today.

The entire country, and other nations as well, vitally are interested in what President Wilson will have to say in his address here when he opens his nation-wide appeal for public support of the peace treaty.

In spite of the street car strike, which undoubtedly will keep many persons from seeing the president, it was certain he would be greeted by a great throng.

The president's train was scheduled to arrive at Union Station at 11 a.m. A reception committee headed by Governor James M. Cox is to rush the president's party to automobiles and the parade to Memorial Hall will start immediately.

ARMY POULTRY TO BE THROWN ON MARKET

Washington, September 4.—The War department has offered to municipalities for resale 1,350,000 pounds of poultry in storage at New York, and 1,000,000 pounds at Chicago, at 32 cents a pound, and about 2,500,000 pounds of other frozen meats at from 16 to 27 cents.

Miss Lena Wells Lykins, of Vancburg, who has been one of the state agents for the illiteracy Commission in its campaign of the summer, stopped here last night to spend the night with her sister, Mrs. C. S. Dale, of West Second street on her way home to begin her work in the Vanceburg High School Monday.

Richmond, Va., September 4.—Despite the appeal of President Wilson, urging favorable action on the Federal Women's Suffrage amendment, the Virginia House of Delegates yesterday refused to ratify it by a vote of 61 to 21.

Contracts such as that in the Blingham case are denounced in the Republican platform. The Republicans can see no reason why the State should pay hundreds of thousands of dollars to private attorneys for work which the attorney general and his numerous assistants are supposed to do.

Wounds From Rusty Nails Dangerous

Serious results, through blood poisoning, often occur from scratches, cuts or wounds from rusty nails or other metal. Don't run this danger. Protect yourself by having a bottle of Houstonia always at hand.

John McMillip, well-known farmer of Clark Co., Ohio, says: "I stepped on a rusty nail which extended half way through my foot. I applied Houstonia to the wound and it damaged the foot. In a short time the pain got easier. After five days I did not limp and the wound healed nicely. People who use Houstonia for such injuries do not need to fear blood poisoning."

Houstonia (The Original Jones Liniment) may be freely applied to open cuts, sores or burns without fear. It soothes while it heals. At your druggist, 25c, 50c and $1.00 sizes. Be sure you get the genuine House-tone-eah with Dr. Jones' picture on the yellow wrapper. The Dr. J. C. Jones Co., S. Charleston, O.—Ady.
